

Are You Compliant?

Any person cutting, grinding, drilling, chiseling or demolishing concrete, mortar, rock, sand, masonry and some paints becomes exposed to Silica dust. Silica dust can cause Silicosis, lung cancer, and COPD.

Construction employers must comply with all requirements of the respirable crystalline silica standard as of September 23, 2017.

The new OSHA standards require employers to limit worker exposures and to take additional steps in protecting their employees.

For more information on the standard please visit:
